United States Department of Agriculture
Foreign Agricultural Service Jakarta - Indonesia

Linking U.S. Agriculture to the World

Our mission is to expand U.S. agricultural export opportunities and to improve food security

About FAS Jakarta

The Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS) represents the United States Department of Agriculture office in Indonesia and works closely with U.S. exporters, Indonesian Importers, trade associations, and Government of Indonesia officials to increase sales of U.S. agricultural products and promote food security.

FAS has two offices in Jakarta:

- The Agricultural Affairs Office (AAO) assists traders of bulk and intermediate commodities such as corn, soybeans, cotton, and forest products.
- The Agricultural Trade Office (ATO) promotes sales of U.S. high value or consumer ready food products and works closely with government and non government organizations in carrying out our food assistance programs.

Worldwide, FAS bears the primary responsibility for the United States Department of Agriculture's overseas activities -- market development, international trade agreements and negotiations, and the collection and analysis of statistics and market information. It also administers USDA's export credit guarantee and food aid programs, and helps increase income and food availability in developing nations by mobilizing expertise for agriculturally led economic growth.

Reduce Trading Risk for U.S. Suppliers and Indonesian Importers

Information on USDA Credit Guarantee programs are available to facilitate commercial trade transactions and reduce the risks inherent in extending credit to Indonesian financial institutions.

Improve Market Access

FAS/Jakarta actively conducts bilateral and multilateral (WTO) efforts to increase access for U.S. food and agricultural products and to curtail a trend toward more tariff and non-tariff barriers.

Market Intelligence

Annual reports are prepared covering 34 different agricultural products. The information assists the U.S. government and the private sector in exploiting market opportunities, addressing market access issues, and facilitating the formulation of food security policies.

Develop Markets for U.S. Products

Promotional and training activities are conducted for the retail, hotel, restaurant, and institutional (HRI) sectors.

A series of seminars and in-house training focuses on increasing utilization of U.S. food ingredients within the food processing sector.

Support Infrastructure and Agribusiness Development

We work with universities, local companies and other partners in infrastructural and agribusiness development.

Two areas of focus are developing Indonesia's "Cold Chain" infrastructure and creating a link between local universities and U.S. Land Grant institutions.

Promote Food Security

USDA food assistance in coordination with the Government of Indonesia focuses on: Health and Nutrition for Women, Infants and Children; Food Security Programs emphasizing Long-Term Agricultural Development; Humanitarian Assistance for Urban Poor and Internally Displaced Persons.
